About Julius

Cultural Coolness in Color

I'm Julius. I shoot photos, create content, and take pride in being the guy who knows about everything.

You want me for a photoshoot? I can do that. You want me to model your fashions, promote your brand, run your social accounts, or develop an ongoing partnership? I can do that too.

I specialize in fashion, portrait, art, lifestyle, and street photography. But I really just appreciate quality visuals across all spectrums. My work represents my world. I'm comfortable both behind and in front of the camera. You may have even spotted me in a few TV shows if you didn't blink.

Social media has always been important to me. You could say it has been a part of my life since before it was called social media. As someone who grew up more on the shy side, I was able to find refuge in online communities and build friendships from all over the world. From message boards to Facebook groups, I've seen it all.

I'm all about community and collaborating, working with an extensive network of artists, models, bloggers, and other creatives.

Creativity is my passion whether it's through social media, photography, acting, or writing. Get colorful with me.
